REFLECTION

The Gospel parable challenges us to be smart in the pursuit of the Kingdom of God. Jesus uses the example of a shrewd manager in his master's business to teach us to be wise. There is a big difference between the wise and the shrewd/smart. Many godless people are smart- like the thieves, robbers and terrorists. In the pursuit of their selfish goals and ambitions, however, they create destruction and unhappiness in the world. Shrewdness can be transformed into wisdom, as when the manager chooses to use his money and influence to gain more friends. Jesus praises the manager's astuteness, but not his dishonesty. Many say, "Money is the root of evil." Instead, Paul says, "The love of money is the root of all evils" (1Tm 6:10). Greed is behind all evil designs. It can assume many forms: theft, robbery, hoarding of material things, and/or using fraudulent schemes for personal gain.

Amos, the prophet of social justice (first reading), castigates those who exploit the poor and make exorbitant profit, and who say, "We will buy the lowly for silver, and the poor for a pair of sandals; even the refuse of the wheat we will sell!" Their crime calls for God's immediate punishment.

On the other hand, Jesus proposes to his disciples to be good and trustworthy stewards: to work for an honest living, to manage money wisely to provide for the family, and to use money to help others.

We are called to live simply, others may simply live; to be content with what we have and habitually thank God for blessings received; to be generous and share as responsible citizens of one world. St. Teresa of Calcutta says, "If we have no peace, it is because we have forgotten that we belong to each other."

While the moment of our encounter with God approaches, we have time to win heaven. The unfaithful administrator was concentrating his attention on the things of this world, but we must focus as Christians on winning the Kingdom and fulfill the demands of the Gospel. One way to win heaven is to promote the type of work fairly earned and remunerated, especially when it deals with the issue of the poor and their just pay, for when we die wealth will not serve us at all.

We must be faithful in the administration of transitory goods and material property so we can be entrusted with the eternal ones. The Gospel concludes by inviting us believers to never forget the true good which awaits the faithful disciple.

Our Blessed Mother tells us to do whatever he says.

May God bless us all and your families. Have a blessed week. Amen.
Dn Ben Flores.
